

Editorial

We can hear the flapping of our fledgling - the first edition of the newsletter - is afloat to reach you.

The first issue brings out a mixed bag of reading - articles as well as snippets.

We celebrate the subtler shades of sustainability in our articles. These articles encapsulate the various ramifications of sustainability and strive to perceive the meaning through the lens of biology, literature, and philosophy. The short and succinct snippets will take you to a mesmerizing journey adorned with various facets of art and culture entangled with our living forms.

We await your response, so please do not forget to write us back. It will reenergize us for the next issue in June.

Avik Ray